Changes at Frederick Area School this fall, including a new security system, improved locker rooms, and a cell phone policy, will affect the students, staff, and general public.

The first change that visitors are likely to notice is the tighter security.

According to Superintendent Jeff Koters, doors will be open in the morning for students arriving at school. At 8:10 a.m., all entrances will be locked, and all those wanting to enter during school hours will need to push a button to alert secretary Stacey Sumption. She will be able to

Child care facility will open in Frederick Sept. 4

Parents in need of child care will have a local option again soon: A new daycare will open at 403 4th St. (which was most recently Maple River Lodge, or the old Lumber Company building) on Sept. 4.

The daycare will be run by Jenny Kocher, who is originally from North Dakota and currently living in Aberdeen.

Hours will be 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. for now, but they may be adjusted to serve parents' needs, according to Renatta Winburn, who has helped to get the business going. It will serve children of all ages.

Interested parents can call Jenny Kocher at 701-321-3355 or Winburn at 605-252-8025.

FINN FEST

MIDSUMMER

ON THE maple

FREDERICK, SOUTH DAKOTA

Make plans for next time:
June 21-23, 2019

Forrest Carlson and Kim Carlson won the 2018 wife carrying contest, de-throning Don and Trista Nickelson, who had won for three years straight.

Kim Carlson sits on one end of the teeter totter while Don Nickelson balances cases of beer on the other end to see how much beer the team won.

The game MÖlky was popular at this year's event.

The fire on the water marked the midsummer moment.

Several vintage cars entered the Finn Fest parade.

Couple travels from Utah just for wife-carrying

Why would a writer from Salt Lake City roadtrip with her husband to Frederick, S.D.?

To compete in the wife-carrying contest, of course.

Susan Lacke is writing a book of unique running events, an assignment that has led her to run across the Grand Canyon, up the stairs of the Empire State Building, and naked on a 5k in Tampa, Florida.

And now, to come to Frederick.

Lacke's book is intended to get people to think differently about exercise. "There are fun ways to be a runner," Lacke said. "You don't have to take yourself so seriously."

The Finn Fest wife-carrying contest was the first in which Lacke competed with her husband, Neil Manville.

"She's been training, but I haven't," Manville said.

"Yes—I'm really proud of your effort," she said after the race in which he did the work and she hung on for the ride.

She could tell the event was a point of community pride, she said.

"We really appreciate everyone being so nice and so welcoming," Lacke said. "I'm from the Midwest, and he's not. So when I tell him about Midwest nice, he never knew what that meant until today."

"It was worth the trip. Absolutely."

Turnquist's extraordinary gift comes from an ordinary, faith-led life

BY HEIDI MARTILA-LOSURE

Bertha Turnquist, the former Frederick area resident who has given a big boost to the North Brown Community Foundation with a donation of $100,000, doesn't want her story told in a big way.

The credit shouldn't go to her, she said. "I just consider it's not my doing. It's the Lord's doing—the Lord's leading."

Turnquist's faith-led road started in Campbell County, where she was in the middle of nine children in a farm family. It was the 1930s, so times were hard—"seemed like too much rain or too little," she said. She finished eighth grade and went to work. Her first job was at a general store in Artas. She later moved to Aberdeen, where she worked at a grocery store and took business classes. She worked in the business office of the American News for a while.

Then a friend decided to set her and Dean Turnquist up on a blind date. And, after a time, Dean proposed. They married in 1963, and she moved to the Turnquist Ranch on the rolling hills along the Elm River.

"It was a nice scenic place," she said.

Though it was less pleasant when the river flooded. According to the Frederick history book, after a particularly difficult flood in April 1969, the brothers decided they needed to build new homes on higher ground, which they completed in 1973.

She didn't have to do much of the ranch work, since Dean and his brother, Merle, took care of that. "I just had to keep the yard up, and keep Dean fed and clean," she said.

She sometimes did have to face challenges while her husband was away. Once she and her dog were chased by a rabid skunk. She had never shot any kind of gun before, but she went and got the rifle. She pointed in the direction of the skunk and fired.

"Well, that didn't do anything," she said. "I decided I should use the scope. And I killed it."

She had time to take part in community life. She was a member of the Homemakers Extension Club and enjoyed traveling with the group on educational trips, and she was also an organist for the Frederick United Methodist Church. She played in Frederick most recently in May, when she was 92, she said.

"Amazing Grace" is a favorite. She likes the old hymns. "Nowadays, the younger people don't like my style," she said. "I can't compete with the praise bands."

Though they did have some upbeat music at the Methodist church, too. "Sometimes I'd get to church and Jack (Smith) would say, 'let's do a number this morning.' That took a little getting used to," she said with a laugh. "But it was nice."

She and Dean moved to Aberdeen in 1998. Dean died in 2016. And she started thinking about where the Lord was leading her now.

"I had this money, and I didn't want to spend it on myself," she said.

She had received materials from the South Dakota Community Foundation and saw that a local foundation was very popular in Campbell County. Then she heard from Scott Campbell that a foundation had been started here.

"I just decided this would be a good investment," she said.

She has a word of advice for the community: "Try to get the young people to come back," she said. She added that she's seen more of that happening lately.

Turnquist's gift to the North Brown Community Foundation was announced during Finn Fest on June 22. It, along with two other recent donations, means NBCF will start giving grants in January 2020.

And the effect of Turnquist's journey of life and faith will be felt in the community for years to come.

Sermon with a smile

Pastor Galen Sylvester led services at the three churches in his parish—Savo Lutheran in rural Frederick, Christ the King in Ellendale, and St. Paul's in Frederick—for the last time before his retirement on July 15. Sylvester served the Frederick area since 2002 and is known for his story-filled sermons and regular presence in the community. Savo presented him with a picture of the church in a wooden frame, and St. Paul's presented a handmade wooden bench that had been signed by church members. Members of both churches attended a potluck following the service at St. Paul's. Justin Brotzel has taken over pastoral duties while he works toward ordination.

New journalists get started

The new Journalism Club in the Frederick Area School will be working on the F.Y.I. newsletter from now on. They will also be working on design, photography, and more in the future.

Five students started working on this issue of F.Y.I. on July 24-25 at Journalism Camp, held in the school's library. The camp helped the students learn how to start writing and editing the newsletter, and Marttila-Losure guided them through the process.

Truck and trailer repair business opens

Jeremy Hormann selected Frederick as the home for JHC Services LLC, Frederick's newest business. The primary focus of the business will be truck and trailer repair. The timing is great for area farmers moving into harvest.

Hormann is working out of the Frederick Seed shop on the northwest side of town. "I've been trying to find a place to open a shop in the area," Hormann said. He met Rich Achen, owner of Frederick Seed, through a mutual friend, "he was doing an addition anyway and had room for me." A new building on site will house the repair business once construction is complete. —Krysti Mikkonen see and hear the person at the door and can remotely unlock the door to let him or her in.

Mr. Kosters and Principal Jessica Ringgenberg will also be able to monitor and unlock the doors.

The security system will be ready before the beginning of the new school year.

The total cost was $47,000, but the school received a grant of $36,000 from the U.S. Department of Homeland Security to help cover that cost.

"This provides another layer of security during the school day," Mr. Kosters said. "We live in a secluded rural area. If you're like me and everybody else, you're seeing these horrific things in the news of school shootings, things like that, and it's easy to just put your head in the sand and say, 'Oh well, that's not going to happen here.' Well, you never know. I'm sure every school that goes through something like that probably thought the same thing... it's not a fun thing to think about. Unfortunately, it is the day that we live in."

Locker rooms get a new look

Student athletes and students in gym classes will notice another change this year: renovated locker rooms. The old lockers were removed, and the walls and floors were painted.

The school spent $12,000 on new lockers, which will be a secure place for students to keep their belongings. Students can get a lock for their use for the year from the school with a $5 deposit.

Before the change, many students' belongings were left out on locker room floors and forgotten, Mr. Kosters said.

"I'm hoping that the students will appreciate the work that was put into those and the money that was spent in obtaining those and hope that they'll take better care of it than they were before," he said. "It was just a pigsty, for lack of a better term."

Phones, devices to be put away

The new cell phone policy starting this year is a way to eliminate a big distraction for students: No students will be allowed to use cell phones or other devices except during lunch time.

The policy could help students to focus on their work without a phone to distract them.

It is also intended to prevent cyber-bullying on social media sites like Facebook, Instagram, and Snapchat.

"The vast majority of the issues that I deal with at this school revolve around (devices), and it's just infuriating sometimes," Mr. Kosters said.

He also said he expects the policy will not be a fan-favorite among older students. "I've already heard grumblings this summer ... from the older kids."

ABOVE: With the new security system, visitors will be able to get into the school's entry, where a device has been installed on the wall between the doors. Visitors will push a button to alert someone that they are waiting to get in.

BELOW: Everyone leaving the school during school hours will also need to push a button so the alarm doesn't sound as they leave.

OLD BUSINESS:

Utility Report - Utility Manager Rich Bakeberg reported there are a few more holes to fill, some mowing left at the Lagoon, a few manholes left to check and he may have to flush again. He mentioned some of the lights changed out at Simmons Park Archway are not coming on. Millard said he will check on them. Bakeberg said he will pick up branches in the park again also.

Water Stats for June's usage and billing was presented along with the Contract amounts from WEB Water. Past Due Accounts were also noted and will be disconnected.

Frederick Forward - A bill received by the city from Sewer Duck from Finn Fest was forwarded on to FF. It was mistakenly sent to the city.

Historical Society - no representation
Emma Burnham Library - President T. Cox asked about replacing the back half of the library building roof. The actual Library was tarred in 2016 but not the apartment half in the back. The request will be put into the city's 2019 Budget. She will talk to another board member from the library and get 3 estimates for an idea of the price. President Cox also mentioned they would like to do a Movie Night at the Library and more Rock Painting classes.

Frederick Development Corporation - No requests

OTHER OLD BUSINESS:

Nothing on the Flashing Speed Signs, speed bumps don't work; Brandon Smid of Helms and Associates was granted permission, done with a motion, to go ahead and get Spec Sheets drawn up for 2 blocks of Water line replacement and present them to local Contractors. Motion was made by TM/GM. Motion Carried. Some of the specs were withdrawn from the previous bid sheet to lower the project cost, i.e. repaving streets and replacing sidewalks being two. It was agreed the spec sheets and proposals would not exceed a cost of $2000 by Helms and Associates; The Annual Report has been sent to GDI News for publication; the EBL roof was discussed during library business; nuisance letters sent to residents have gotten responses; no reduction for broken pipe; 2nd street resident will receive some fill in front of home but will also be one of the 1st streets done for Water Project.

NEW BUSINESS:

Mike Nehls, Candidate for Brown County Commissioner from rural Groton, SD, addressed the meeting by explaining his stand on issues. As a former Chief of Police in SD and an Emergency Management Coordinator, he lobbied to keep our 911 Centers open in SD. Aberdeen is one he worked on to stay open, and it has, but was disappointed Webster and Britton both lost their 911 Centers.

OPEN MEETING NOTICE was requested to be published by Ted Dickey, Program Coordinator of North East Council of Government, to let the public be aware that the Application for the Sanitary Sewer Project Funding has begun and what it may mean to the community. Until we know the City's eligibility for a Grant, we will not be sure of the amount needed for a loan. He presented a report showing the current sewer charges and yearly revenue, the funding source showing breakdown for loan and amounts needed, and the increases needed to be in compliance with State statues. All prices are subject to change. Project Engineer Brandon Smid mentioned that Helms & Associates would televise the line first to find out the condition and some may only need to be lined. A motion was made to apply for funding as currently written, including a motion to pass Resolution to agree to applying for financial assistance with the US Department of Agriculture-Rural Development, to finance Frederick's Sanitation Sewer Project. Motion made by TM/GS. Motion Carried.

Second Quarter Emma Burnham Library Report was reviewed and accepted with a motion by TM/GS. Motion Carried.

Preliminary Appropriations Budget will be presented in August.

A request of $500 from Area Four Senior Citizens Planning Council, Inc. requesting a donation for the Senior Nutrition Program in Frederick was denied, it is not in the Budget. It will be considered for the 2019 Budget.

A request for gravel on the corner of sidewalk and PO driveway is not the city's responsibility.

The Landfill is going to be Closed and open by appointment only. It has been burned and cleaned and needs to be kept that way according to the USDA regulations. A key will be available from Utility Manager Rich Bakeberg or Chairman Scott Campbell at 1st National Bank.
